Meaning of the “pay period” and the “relevant pay period”

- 5.—(1) In these Regulations, the “pay period”, in relation to a relevant employee, means—
- (a) the period in respect of which the relevant employer pays the employee basic pay, whether weekly, fortnightly, monthly or any other period, or
 - (b) if the relevant employer does not pay the employee basic pay, the period in respect of which the employer most frequently pays the employee one of the elements of ordinary pay mentioned in regulation 3(1)(b) to (e).
- (2) In these Regulations, the “relevant pay period” means the pay period within which the snapshot date falls.

Meaning of “hourly rate of pay”

- 6.—(1) The “hourly rate of pay”, in relation to a relevant employee, is to be determined as follows —

Step 1

Identify all amounts of ordinary pay and bonus pay paid to the employee during the relevant pay period.

Step 2

Where an amount identified under Step 1 is an amount of ordinary pay, exclude any amount that would normally fall to be paid in a different pay period.

Step 3

Where an amount identified under Step 1 is an amount of bonus pay, and is paid in respect of a period (“the bonus period”) which is not the same length as the relevant pay period, divide the amount by the length of the bonus period (in days) and multiply it by the length of the relevant pay period (in days).

Step 4

Add together the amounts identified under Step 1 (as adjusted, where necessary, under Steps 2 and 3).

Step 5

Multiply the amount found under Step 4 by the appropriate multiplier (see paragraphs (2) and (3)).

Step 6

Divide the amount found under Step 5 by the number of working hours in a week for that employee (see regulation 7).

- (2) In this regulation, “the appropriate multiplier” means 7 divided by the number of days in the relevant pay period.

(5) Section 10(2) was amended by paragraph 4(2) of Schedule 7 to the Finance Act 2008 (c. 9).

(6) Section 10(3) was amended by paragraph 6(2) of Schedule 2 to the Finance Act 2011 (c. 11).

(7) 2003 c. 1. Section 420 was substituted by paragraph 2(1) of Schedule 22 to the Finance Act 2003 (c. 14).

(3) In determining for the purposes of this regulation the number of days in the relevant pay period or bonus period where those periods are (or are determined by reference to) a month or a year—

- (a) a month is treated as having 30.44 days;
- (b) a year is treated as having 365.25 days.

Employee's working hours in a week

7.—(1) The number of working hours in a week for a relevant employee, for the purposes of Step 6 in regulation 6, is to be determined as follows.

(2) Subject to paragraph (6), where an employee has normal working hours that do not differ from week to week or over a longer period, the number of working hours in a week for a relevant employee is the number of the normal working hours in a week for that employee under the employee's contract of employment, or terms of employment, in force on the snapshot date.

(3) Subject to paragraph (6), where the employee has no normal working hours, or the number of the normal working hours differs from week to week or over a longer period, the number of working hours in a week for the employee is—

- (a) the average number of working hours calculated by dividing by twelve the total number of the employee's working hours during the period of twelve weeks ending with the last complete week of the relevant pay period, or
- (b) where the employee has not been at work for a sufficient period, or for some other reason the employer is not reasonably able to make the calculation under paragraph (a), a number which fairly represents the number of working hours in a week having regard to such of the considerations specified in paragraph (5) as are appropriate in the circumstances.

(4) In calculating the average number of working hours for the purposes of paragraph (3)(a), no account is to be taken of a week in which no hours were worked by the employee, and hours worked in earlier weeks must be brought in so as to bring up to twelve the number of weeks of which account is taken.

(5) The considerations referred to in paragraph (3)(b) are—

- (a) the average number of working hours in a week which the employee could expect under the employee's contract of employment, or terms of employment; and
- (b) the average number of working hours of other employees engaged in comparable employment with the same employer.

(6) Where the employee is paid on the basis of piecework, the number of working hours in a week for the employee is the number of hours of output work for that employee in the week during the relevant pay period within which the snapshot date falls, determined in accordance with Chapter 4 of Part 5 of the National Minimum Wage Regulations 2015⁽⁸⁾.

(7) In its application by virtue of paragraph (6), Chapter 4 of Part 5 of the National Minimum Wage Regulations 2015 has effect as if—

- (a) references to a worker were references to an employee, and
- (b) references to a pay reference period were references to a week.

(8) In this regulation, "working hours"—

- (a) includes hours when an employee is available, and required to be available, at or near a place of work for the purposes of working unless the employee is at home, and
- (b) excludes any hours for which an employee is entitled to overtime pay.

(8) S.I. 2015/621.

(9) In paragraph (8), hours when a worker is “available” only includes hours when the worker is awake for the purposes of working, even if a worker by arrangement sleeps at or near a place of work and the employer provides suitable facilities for sleeping.

Difference in mean hourly rate of pay

8. The difference between the mean hourly rate of pay of male full-pay relevant employees and that of female full-pay relevant employees must be expressed as a percentage of the mean hourly rate of pay of male full pay relevant employees and is to be determined as follows—

where—

A is the mean hourly rate of pay of all male full-pay relevant employees; and

B is the mean hourly rate of pay of all female full-pay relevant employees.

Difference in median hourly rate of pay

9. The difference between the median hourly rate of pay of male full-pay relevant employees and that of female full-pay relevant employees must be expressed as a percentage of the median pay of male full-pay relevant employees and is to be determined as follows—

$$\frac{(A - B)}{A} \times 100$$

where—

A is the median hourly rate of pay of all male full-pay relevant employees; and

B is the median hourly rate of pay of all female full-pay relevant employees.

Difference in mean bonus pay

10.—(1) The difference between the mean bonus pay paid to male relevant employees and that paid to female relevant employees must be expressed as a percentage of the mean bonus pay paid to male relevant employees and is to be determined as follows—

$$\frac{(A - B)}{A} \times 100$$

where—

A is the mean bonus pay paid during the relevant period to male relevant employees who were paid bonus pay during that period; and

B is the mean bonus pay paid during the relevant period to female relevant employees who were paid bonus pay during that period.

(2) In this regulation “the relevant period” means the period of 12 months ending with the snapshot date.

Difference in median bonus pay

11.—(1) The difference between the median bonus pay paid to male relevant employees and that paid to female relevant employees must be expressed as a percentage of the median bonus pay paid to male relevant employees and is to be determined as follows—

$$\frac{(A - B)}{A} \times 100$$

where—

A is the median bonus pay paid during the relevant period to male relevant employees who were paid bonus pay during that period; and

B is the median bonus pay paid during the relevant period to female relevant employees who were paid bonus pay during that period.

(2) In this regulation “the relevant period” means the period of 12 months ending with the snapshot date.

Proportion of male and female employees who received bonus pay

12.—(1) The proportion of male relevant employees who were paid bonus pay must be expressed as a percentage of male relevant employees and is to be determined as follows—

$$\frac{A}{B} \times 100$$

where—

A is the number of male relevant employees who were paid bonus pay during the relevant period; and

B is the number of male relevant employees.

(2) The proportion of female relevant employees who were paid bonus pay must be expressed as a percentage of female relevant employees and is to be determined as follows—

$$\frac{A}{B} \times 100$$

where—

A is the number of female relevant employees who were paid bonus pay during the relevant period; and

B is the number of female relevant employees.

(3) In this regulation “the relevant period” means the period of 12 months ending with the snapshot date.

Proportion of male and female employees according to quartile pay bands

13.—(1) The proportions of male and female full-pay relevant employees in the lower, lower middle, upper middle and upper quartile pay bands is to be determined as follows.

Step 1

Determine the hourly rate of pay for each male and female full-pay relevant employee and then rank those employees in order from lowest paid to highest paid.

Step 2

Divide the employees, as ranked under Step 1, into four sections, each comprising (so far as possible) an equal number of employees, to determine the lower, lower middle, upper middle and upper quartile pay bands.

Step 3

The proportion of male full-pay relevant employees within each quartile pay band must be expressed as a percentage of the full-pay relevant employees within that band as follows—

$$\frac{A}{B} \times 100$$

where—

A is the number of male full-pay relevant employees in a quartile pay band; and

B is the number of full-pay relevant employees in that quartile pay band.

Step 4

The proportion of female full-pay relevant employees within each quartile pay band must be expressed as a percentage of the full-pay relevant employees within that band as follows—

$$\frac{A}{B} \times 100$$

where—

A is the number of female full-pay relevant employees in a quartile pay band; and

B is the number of full-pay relevant employees in that quartile pay band.

(2) Where employees receiving the same hourly rate of pay fall within more than one quartile pay band, the employer must (so far as possible) ensure that, when ranking the employees under Step 1, the relative proportion of male and female employees receiving that rate of pay is the same in each of those pay bands.

14.—(1) The information published under regulation 2 must be accompanied by a written statement which—

- (a) confirms that the information is accurate; and
- (b) is signed in accordance with paragraph (2).

(2) Where the relevant employer is—

- (a) a body corporate other than a limited liability partnership within the meaning of the Limited Liability Partnerships Act 2000⁽⁹⁾, the written statement must be signed by a director (or equivalent);

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations impose obligations on employers with 250 or more employees to publish information relating to the gender pay gap in their organisation. In particular, employers are required to publish the difference between the average hourly rate of pay paid to male and female employees; the difference between the average bonus paid to male and female employees; the proportions of male and of female employees who receive bonuses; and the relative proportions of male and female employees in each quartile pay band of the workforce.

For the purposes of these Regulations, ‘employment’ is defined in section 83 of the Equality Act 2010, and includes employment under a contract of employment, a contract of apprenticeship or a contract personally to do work.

Regulation 1 defines key terms used in the Regulations and makes clear that an employee’s ordinary pay or bonus pay is to be calculated before deductions made at source, such as deductions in relation to income tax.

Regulation 2 imposes a duty on relevant employers (those with 250 or more employees on the 5th April of a given year) to publish specified information relating to the difference in pay between male and female employees. Further detail about how the information is to be expressed is found in regulations 8 to 13. The information must be published within the period of 12 months beginning with the ‘snapshot date’ of 5th April each year.

Regulations 3 to 5 define ‘ordinary pay’, ‘bonus pay’, ‘pay period’ and the ‘relevant pay period’.

Regulation 6 determines how to calculate an employee’s hourly rate of pay, and regulation 7 sets out how to determine the number of working hours in a week.

Regulation 8 sets out the way in which a relevant employer must calculate the difference between the mean average hourly rate of pay of male full-pay relevant employees, and that of female full-pay relevant employees. Those employees being paid at a reduced rate or nil as a result of being on leave are excluded from the calculation (see the definition of ‘full-pay relevant employee’ in regulation 1). Regulation 9 makes the same provision in relation to the median average hourly rate of pay.

Regulation 10 sets out the way in which a relevant employer must calculate the difference between the mean average bonus pay of male employees, and that of female employees. Regulation 11 makes the same provision in relation to median average bonus pay.

Regulation 12(1) sets out the way in which employers must determine the proportion of male employees who were paid bonus pay during the period of 12 months ending with the snapshot date of 5th April, and regulation 12(2) makes the same provision for female employees.

Regulation 13 sets out the way in which employers must determine the proportions of male and female full-pay employees in each of the lower, lower middle, upper middle and upper quartile pay bands.

Regulation 14 requires the employer to make and sign a written statement to confirm that the information published in accordance with regulation 2 is accurate.

Regulation 15 explains that the information required by regulation 2 must be published on the employer’s own website for at least 3 years from the date of publication, and must also be published on a website designated by the Secretary of State.

Failure to comply with an obligation imposed by these Regulations constitutes an ‘unlawful act’ within the meaning of section 34 of the Equality Act 2006 (c. 3), which empowers the Equality and Human Rights Commission to take enforcement action.

Regulation 16 provides for a review of these Regulations by the Secretary of State as required by the Small Business, Enterprise and Employment Act 2015 (c. 26).

A full impact assessment of the effect that this instrument will have on the costs to business and the voluntary sector is available from <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultation/closing-the-gender-pay-gap> and is published with an Explanatory Memorandum alongside the instrument on www.legislation.gov.uk. A hard copy of the full impact assessment can be obtained from the Government Equalities Office, Sanctuary Buildings, 20 Great Smith Street, SW1P 3BT.
